A return to the past: Monument Mountain set to revert back to Mohican stewardship

A state grant will fund the return and implement tribal land strategies to combat climate change.

Massachusetts Lt. Governor Kim Driscoll (right) announces the award of a $2.6 million grant for the Stockbridge-Munsee Band of Mohicans to reclaim their Indigenous homelands, including the stewardship of Monument Mountain. With the return of the parcels, the Mohican tribe will be responsible for implementing tribal conservation and forest management strategies to combat climate change. Following today's historic Stockbridge announcement by Massachusetts Lt. Governor Kim Driscoll, Monument Mountain will once again belong to the Indigenous people that settled the area centuries ago.

"The North slope of the land now known as Fenn Farm on Monument Mountain will once again be stewarded by the Stockbridge-Munsee Band of the Mohican Nation," Driscoll said to a packed Stockbridge Town Hall, part of the ancestral homeland of the Mohican tribe that's now based in Wisconsin. "That's not only a meaningful step forward in relation to our history, but [it] also means that Indigenous land management practices and traditional ecological knowledge are going to help us fight and adapt to an ever-growing and present-changing climate future."

Clinic updates for October 2023

Covid

- The Clinic has at-home covid tests and masks (including N-95 masks) available at no cost.
- Many people are seeing covid symptoms similar to allergies. If you feel congested, you may want to consider taking a covid tests.
- If you come to the clinic while having covid, please wear a mask.
- Covid booster vaccinations should be available in mid-October. The clinic will post a flier once they are available.

Clinic Staff

- Dr. Tom Wargo, our chiropractor, will be retiring. His last day will be December 1, 2023. The Tribe is recruiting for his replacement.

Ella B New Building

- The Tribe is recruiting for care attendants, cooks, housekeepers, and maintenance staff. Ella B can provide training for new care attendants. Vacancies will be posted on the Tribe's web page - <https://www.mohican.com/services/careers/tribal-employment/>

- The new building is anticipated to be open April 1st 2024.
- Parking lot construction will take place beginning October 4th. The clinic will remain open and patient parking will remain in the front of the clinic. Clinic employees may need to park off site during construction.
- The front walkway for the clinic will be reworked as part of the parking lot construction. This re-work will eliminate the step up from the parking lot to the sidewalk. Melvin is available to help patients during construction.
- Tribal Council approved

the program statement for the new facility. A copy is posted on page 13 of this newspaper.

Administrative Updates

- The clinic implemented a 105L lease. This lease requires IHS to pay the Tribe rent for the Clinic building because the building is used to offer health care services. The lease agreement provides the Tribe $1.4 million dollars a year, this is approximately $1.2 million more than the standard M&I funding method.
- Pharmacy is implementing the 340B program from HRSA. This is a pharmacy program to allow the clinic to purchase medications at a reduced rate because we are a FQHC (Federally qualified Health Center). The clinic expects this program to save the Tribe between $300,000 and $500,000 each year.

- The Clinic and Tribe continue to work with Wisconsin and CMS to implement a Medicaid All Inclusive Rate that will increase Medicaid revenue from prescriptions filled at the Clinic. Wisconsin plans to request a state plan amendment from CMS to approve this request.
- The clinic is working with IHS and our contracted flooring company to replace the clinic floors. A schedule will be available once the supplies can be delivered. The flooring replacement will take place after hours.

Clinic community events (fliers will be distributed)

- 10/11 Color Walk @ Pine Hills
- 10/14 Safety Fair @ Public Safety Bldg
- 10/13 Breast Cancer Awareness event
- 10/18 Make and Take

Eunice Stick Gathering Place

Elderly Activities at the Eunice Stick Gathering Place. There are some EXCITING things coming up over the next few months here at the gathering place. In October, there is a writing class with the Mohicans Writers Circle.

Make plans to join them and learn the techniques to put your own story together like their recent publishing of "Along the Many Trails" that includes stories from numerous Tribal Members.

We will be embarking on some crafting projects including homemade card making, Holiday wreaths, and a special Quilt project that will begin in the new year. Join us in our craft projects throughout each month. Art is subjective and we can all express ourselves through multiple mediums. I believe there is an artist in all of us!

A Continuation of our weekly Bingo sessions will be held on Tuesdays! Come out and join the comradery that comes with playing our friendly Bingo sessions and have a chance to "catch up" with everyone in our community.

We will be having our History Tour of the Reservation on Thursday October 12, 2023 departing the Gathering Place at 10a.m. Call to sign up.

Please see the Activites Calendar in the Elderly Stream that covers ALL THINGS going on here!

Brian Vogelsang

Brian G. Vogelsang, age 61, of Gresham, passed away peacefully on Tuesday September 19, 2023, in Appleton surrounded by his family. Brian was born in Shawano on August 1, 1962, to the late Ernest "Sonny" and Marie "Sug" (Peters) Vogelsang. After high school Brian enlisted in the United States Marine Corps where he served for three years and received an honorable discharge. He returned home and after one summer he re-enlisted in the National Guard. Brian worked as a truck driver for many years, twelve of those years for Tri-Hi Transportation in Merrill where he made lifelong friends. Brian was united in marriage to the former Peggy Thielman on June 1, 2013, in Gresham. Brian enjoyed telling a great story and had a passion for cooking. More than anything he loved being surrounded by his family and he cherished spending time with his grandchildren. Brian is survived by his wife, Peggy Vogelsang; children, Megan (Marc) Lardinois, Kyle (Lynzi) Vogelsang, stepson, Shane Farrington; stepdaughter, Sam (Erik) Olson; nine grandchildren, Eli, Jayden, Rhylee, Rory, Suzy, Wyatt, Barbara, Maverick, and Odin; siblings, Toni (Kevin) Henderson and Bradley Vogelsang; and aunts, Emily Adair and Bess Hetzer. He is further survived by nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.

Brian is preceded in death by his parents, a granddaughter, Kylee; and a brother, Paul Vogelsang. A funeral service for Brian was held September 23, 2023, at the Old Stockbridge Presbyterian Church in Morgan Siding with Rev. Gordon Oliver officiating. Visitation was held at the church on Saturday until the time of the service. Military Honors were conducted at the church by the Gresham American Legion immediately following the service.

Brian's family would like to extend a special thank you to the staff in the ThedaCare ICU in Appleton for the wonderful care Brian received.

Clinic Parking Lot

The SMHWC clinic parking lot will be replaced in October. Construction on the parking lot is expected to start on October 4th. The construction will include replacing healing way (the road from highway A to the parking lot). The clinic will remain open and patient parking will still be located in the front of the clinic as it currently is. If you have an appointment in October, please plan to arrive a little earlier than normal in case there is any delays in parking. Melvin, our security guard, will be available if patients need extra assistance.

"This project [is being] [was] supported, in whole or in part, by federal award number [SLFRP0135FAIN] awarded to [the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs via the Wisconsin Department of Administration] by the U.S. Department of the Treasury."

First Tribal Veteran Service Officer to serve as the President of the Tribal/County Veterans Service Officers Association of Wisconsin.

83 String is the motto. 11 Wisconsin Tribes and 72 counties.

Bruce Wilber Jr of the Menominee Nation is acting President and will be sworn in this Fall as President.

The Tribes will have a drum and honor song at the Fall conference in Kenosha for the swearing in ceremony.

As Senator Baldwin stated "You have made history as the first Tribal Veteran Service Officer to hold this position. You are a credit to the Menominee Nation and to all Native Americans who have bravely served our country. I am grateful to have you as a partner in advocating for the rights and benefits of our Veterans, and I look forward to working with you".

Working with other Tribal Veterans Service Officers and with County Veteran Service Officers blends knowledge of VA systems, forms and claims and enhances both delivery to our Tribal Veterans, and the ability to share Tribal culture and service to our country.

Many County Veteran Service Officers embrace our joining the Association and we are grateful for their inclusion of our unique sovereign status and mission to serve Tribal Veterans in our Communities.

Twice per year the Association meets and covers several days of training to maintain accreditation and share experiences with the "I have a Veteran session". These scenarios help all participants navigate VA requirements for submitting claims, appealing and forming changes to the VA and WDVA processes for serving Veterans.

Tribal and County Veteran Service Officers aid all Veterans free of charge to the Veteran.

Obtaining a Veteran ID in Wisconsin

Being a veteran can bring perks such as exclusive discounts and special services from businesses, but very often obtaining these perks requires showing proof of service. One way to prove veteran status is to present a discharge paper (form DD214), which all veterans receive when separating from the military. However, carrying this document around is both impractical and an identity-theft risk. Luckily, in Wisconsin there are several options to obtain an identification card that provides proof of military service. These options are:

- 1) Requesting the State of Wisconsin Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV), put a veteran identifier (the word Veteran) on driver's license/state ID card.
- 2) Applying online at vets.gov for a U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) issued Veterans Identification Card (VIC).
- 3) Enrolling in the VA Health Care System.

For Wisconsin residents, option one is probably the quickest and easiest option with few eligibility requirements (requirements are: two years active duty during peacetime or 90 days during wartime, and an honorable discharge). It also has the added benefit of eliminating the need to carry a second/separate ID. Before a veteran goes to the DVM to get the veteran identifier on their driver license or state ID card they need to verify eligibility with the Wisconsin Department of Veterans Affairs. They can do this by contacting the Veterans Benefits Resource Center at: 1-800-WIS-VETS or by contacting the local County or Tribal Veteran Service Officer. In the Stockbridge-Munsee Tribal Community this is Gregg W. Duffek at: 715-793-4036, located at 203 W. Main St Bowler, WI. 54416.

After establishing VA eligibility, veterans can go to the Wisconsin DMV to get the identifier put on their license. If renewing a license there is no extra charge but there is a fee if requesting a replacement outside of the renewal dates. Remember to take a certified birth certificate with you to the DMV. Options two and three are more difficult to use. Option two was experiencing technical difficulties last year and only recently started receiving applications after placing the program on hold for several months. To get the federally issued ID veterans must apply online through vets.gov. They must also upload a photo that meets passport-type qualifications. Option three is not open to all veterans and determining eligibility is a longer and more complicated process. However, if a veteran would like to explore these two options the Veteran Service Office is available to answer questions and to veterans through these processes as well. Having a veteran ID is a safer and more convenient way for veterans to carry proof that they are a veteran than carrying discharge papers and in Wisconsin it is relatively easy to obtain one. Veterans who get one can more easily enjoy using the special offers and discounts available to them!

Mountain cont from One: She acknowledged the work done by Stockbridge officials to affect the return of this land.

The change is promulgated by a $31.5 million grant program—the Municipal Vulnerability Preparedness Program (MVP)—that provides local communities with funding and technical assistance to implement climate resilience projects. Along with 56 different individual municipal grantees, the Stockbridge-Munsee Band of Mohicans was awarded a $2.26 million grant to reclaim 351 acres of their Indigenous homelands, while implementing tribal conservation and forest management strategies to combat climate change.

“We are celebrating the Stockbridge-Munsee Band of Mohicans reclaiming land in their ancestral homeland,” Massachusetts Energy and Environmental Affairs Secretary Rebecca Tepper said. “We are also celebrating the concept to have Indigenous land management as a key way to further climate resiliency in our state.”

Stockbridge-Munsee Band of Mohicans President

Shannon Holsey described the day as “very joyful and emotional” for her community. “We believe that it is our responsibility to be land stewards and to advocate for future generations,” she said. “We are grateful to be home today, and we are grateful to be partners with all of you who made today possible.”

Holsey spoke of the “land-back movement”—to get Indigenous lands back into Indigenous hands—but said her tribe is “not trying to reclaim land from ownership in a Western colonial way of thinking about it.” She explained, “We are trying to reclaim our ways of being which was never based on money. It was the reclamation of our kinship systems, our governance systems, our ceremony and spirituality, our language, our culture, and our food and medicinal systems. Those are all based on our relationships to the land.”

Holsey told The Berkshire Edge that the funds will be used to reacquire anything that has “historical significance” to the tribal nation, to not only possess the artifacts but educate people about the tribe’s existence and honor its ancestors. Specifically, for Monument Mountain, she said the Stockbridge-Munsee Band presence will be felt “from the flying of our flag to the return of stones with messages with hopes and prayers of our people for future generations to remember that, in spite of everything that’s happened, we’re still here.”

A sacred site for the Mohican people, Reservation Trustees previously worked with tribal leaders to re-name Monument Mountain in 2021 from “Squaw Peak,” a derogatory term, to “Peeskawso Peak,” meaning “virtuous woman” in the Mohican language. “Indian Monument Trail” was also renamed “Mohican Monument Trail” on the tract, and new signs were added to reflect the true historical significance of the site to the Mohican tribe.

At the announcement, Egremont was also awarded $81,500 to conduct a climate action program.

Local leaders weigh in Stockbridge Select Board member Patrick White said the day represents how we address the impacts of human activity on climate. “The fact that we’re doing that and renewing this partnership and reconciling with some folks who left over 200 years ago is truly historic,” he said. “The Mohican community was based in Stockbridge, and they’re coming home.”

For Laurie Norton Moffatt, director and CEO of the Norman Rockwell Museum, the event marked an important time in history to welcome “the original citizens and inhabitants of our community that we all share a history with.” Signature artists at the Norman Rockwell Museum display imagery that recorded the moment the town was formed, she said.

Hilary Somers Deely, president of the Laurel Hill Association, the nation’s oldest village improvement society, said her group has had much interaction with the Stockbridge-Munsee Band. “It’s all good news for the tribe, and it’s all good news for us as people that care about conservation and preservation,” she said. “We sure don’t want developers to come in and take that sacred ground and start putting condos on it.”

Stockbridge Bowl Association president Pat Kennelly acknowledged the “very special and strong relationship with the Munsee tribe” that her group maintains after renaming the island in the center of the waters, per tribal leaders, “Kwun-iikwat Island.” It was subsequently dedicated to the Stockbridge-Munsee Nation.

A local history full of twists and turns

Driscoll’s August 30 announcement was a long time coming, centuries in fact. According to the Stockbridge-Munsee Historical Committee, the Berkshire area was settled by the Stockbridge-Munsee Band of Mohicans, with its original name meaning “People of the Waters that are Never Still.”

The traditional homeland of the Mohican people spanned from the Hudson River to the west to the Westfield River to the east, down northern Manhattan and Westchester County, and north to Lake Champlain, said Mark Wilson, Associate Curator for the Trustees of Reservations, which maintains the properties affiliated with the local Stockbridge-Munsee Mohican Community. Colonization of the area by the Dutch and English in the early 1700s brought disease as well as an interest to acquire land, driving the Mountain cont on Seven:

Mountain cont from Six: Mohican people from their territory in the Hudson Valley farther east into Connecticut and Massachusetts.

In 1734, John Sergeant, a Christian, began a mission to assimilate the Mohican people living in Wnahktukuk, present-day Stockbridge. In 1742, he built the Mission House on Prospect Hill. Eventually, it was moved to 19 Main Street, where it is maintained by the Trustees of Reservations.

Stockbridge, known as "IndianTown," soon boasted a church and school. Ancestral Indigenous land can be found along Main Street, including the town cemetery, or burial ground, where Sergeant, a Mohican chief, and two Stockbridge Indian women are buried. According to Wilson, the local skyline not only included English houses but Mohican structures as well, representing an interrelationship between tradition and the new culture.

"There was no ownership of land for the Stockbridge(-Munsee) people," Wilson said of the vast areas inhabited by the tribe and shared with other communities. "They lived on the land; they stewarded the land, but they didn't own it."

Although many Mohicans had served alongside colonists in the Revolutionary War, they were eventually pushed out of the Stockbridge area. "The tribe was forced off of the Select Board, they were excommunicated from the church," Wilson said of the tribe. "Everything this town was set up for with them involved was taken from them."

By 1783, the tribal community had left Stockbridge for western New York to live among the Oneida Nation. There, in New Stockbridge, the tribe thrived, but not for long. Local pressure to remove Native Americans from New York's borders forced another relocation in the 1820s, this time to an area on Lake Winnebago in Shawano County, Wis. Renamed Stockbridge in the 1840s, the Stockbridge-Munsee Community is now a federally recognized Indian Nation, and the reservation houses about 1,500 of its members.

"We always maintained a relationship with the state of Massachusetts because our ancestors are still here," Holsey said. "It's also about stewardship and making sure we retain the historical significance of this homeland and making sure that we do whatever we can in a collaborative way to protect it for future generations." Nutrition: Food Safety

Food poisoning (also called foodborne illness or foodborne disease) is by caused by consuming food contaminated with certain bacteria and viruses. Food safety refers to the best ways to handle, prepare, and store food to prevent illness.

Food safety rules

Follow these basic safety rules to help keep food safe and avoid illness.

Clean: Wash your hands frequently and clean surfaces touched by food. Germs can spread all over the kitchen, such as on cutting boards, knives, counter tops, sponges, and towels.

Separate: Keep raw foods—such as raw meat, poultry, and seafood—and their juices away from other foods. Germs spread from one food product to another.

Cook: Cook foods to the right temperature. Foods are properly cooked when they are heated for a long enough time and the internal temperature is high enough to kill harmful germs. Always use a thermometer to make sure meat, poultry, and fish reach a safe minimum cooking temperature.

Chill: Refrigerate food promptly. Germs can quickly multiply when food is left at room temperature. FDA recommends refrigerating food within than two hours. Refrigerate it within one hour if it's 90°F or above (such as in a hot car).

Refrigerator safety

Cold temperatures slow the spread of harmful germs. Use these tips to make sure you're storing foods the right way:

- Check the settings with an appliance thermometer. Your refrigerator should be at 40°F or below. Your freezer should be at 0°F or below.
- Cook or freeze fresh poultry, fish, ground meats, and organ and variety meats (such as, heart, kidney, liver and tongue) within two days. Cook or freeze beef, veal, lamb, or pork within three to five days.
- Securely wrap perishable food, such as meat and poultry, to help maintain quality and prevent meat juices from getting onto other food.
- If freezing meat or poultry in its original package, wrap the package again with heavy-duty foil or freezer wrap.

Eating out

More than half of foodborne outbreaks are linked to restaurants. Follow these tips to protect yourself when you eat out:

- Send your food back if it's not fully cooked. Certain foods, such as meat, seafood, poultry and eggs, need to be at a temperature high enough to kill harmful germs.
- Put your leftovers in the fridge within two hours of eating, or one hour if the temperature is above 90°F (such as in a hot car). Reheat your leftovers to 165°F.
- If you get food poisoning, and you think it's linked to a restaurant, report your illness to your local health department.

Not only did Debbie not charge for the trip, but she went out of her way to purchase 10 fishing poles brand new for the elders to use. She put so much time and effort into making sure the elders had the best experience. The group caught roughly a dozen fish, panfish and perch. The Mohican News might hold the record for smallest fish caught for the day. Wrapping up the trip, relaxing for a nice ride back home, watching the leaves change the elders enjoyed the day. The smiles of all the elders brought the trip to a nice ending.
